FACES

Introduction

This is Christopher Newport University the faculty and staff who are the heart and soul of this special place. On the following pages are the faces, names, titles, phone numbers and e-mail addresses of the faculty and staff who work as a team to prepare our students for life. And as a team, we must communicate effectively and often. To help facilitate this communication process, we have developed this book – CNU FACES.

Please use this as a resource and get to know your colleagues by face and by name.

Notes

1. The first step in the process of data collection is to identify the research objectives. This involves determining the specific information needed to answer the research question. Once the objectives are clear, the next step is to design a study that will allow the researcher to collect the data in a systematic and unbiased manner. This may involve choosing a sample of participants, deciding on the methods of data collection, and developing a protocol for data management and analysis.

2. The second step in the process of data collection is to identify the research objectives. This involves determining the specific information needed to answer the research question.
