Sexual Assault Awareness: A Discussion With Survivors, Scholars and Activists

Panel with Rosemary Tribble, author of Fear to Freedom

Sexual Assault Awareness: A Discussion with Survivors, Scholars and Activists, will be held on Tuesday, April 6, from 4 p.m. to 6 p.m. in the Ferguson Center's Music & Theatre Hall. The event is free and open to the public and the CNU community. No reservation is required.

The panel program will feature Rosemary Tribble, wife of CNU President Paul Tribble and author of the recently released book Fear to Freedom, as well as CNU's Luter School of Business professor Stephanie Bardwell, Department of English professor Patricia Hopkins, Nicole Surething of CNU's Office of Counseling Services, Shawna Gray of the Center for Sexual Assault Survivors, Michelle Marie McKay of the Virginia Anti-Violence Project, and CNU student leader Kristina Romines.

Panelists will share their personal and professional experiences dealing with sexual assault in an effort to raise awareness and to provide practical advice on the subject. Professional counselors will also be on-site. The event is co-sponsored by CNU's Center for Service Learning & Social Entrepreneurship, Women's and Gender Studies, Femme Sole, Alpha Phi, Zeta Tau Alpha, Department of Residence Life, and the Gay-Straight Student Union.

For more information regarding the panel discussion, contact Professor Laura Puaca at laura.puaca@cnu.edu or at (757) 594-8879.
