

OUR MISSION: The Food Fighters uses student volunteers to deliver unused dining hall food to local homeless shelters. We pair CNU's excess resources with an opportunity to do good in Newport News through the collaboration of students and staff.

On the CNU campus, the Food Fighters collaborate with the dining hall staff and other student groups to create a community effort against waste. Knowledgeable dining staff members package the food in containers that the Food Fighters organization provides. Students arrive promptly at the dining hall's closing and act as couriers, delivering food Monday through Friday during every full academic week.

If you and/or your organization is interested and would like to participate in our weekly deliveries please fill out this form:
