Dear University Community,

The Wason Center for Public Policy and WVEC TV invites the CNU community to attend a special town hall on the state of education in Virginia on Friday March 27. Our goal is to have a thoughtful conversation on the many issues and challenges facing students, parents, teachers, and legislators. SOL reform, state funding, and accreditation concerns are just a few of the topics we expect to cover.

Hosted by 13News Now anchors David Alan and Janet Roach, "Education in Virginia: Our Kids, Our Future" will air live from the Gaines Theatre at 7 pm. The panel will include Virginia Secretary of Education Anne Holton, Virginia Board of Education President Christian Braunlich, State Senator John Miller, State Senator John Cosgrove, Delegate Daun Sessoms Hester, Newport News Mayor McKinley Price, Norfolk Superintendent Dr. Samuel King, Newport News Superintendent Dr. Ashby Kilgore, Virginia Beach School Board member Beverly Anderson, Virginia Beach Education Association President Kelly Walker, and Norfolk Federation of Teachers President Patricia Reuben.

We have reserved seats for CNU students, faculty, and staff, but since registration is required. If you would like to attend, please reply to qkidd@cnu.edu and I will put your name on the registration list.

Thank you,

Quentin
