The Reiff Center for Human Rights and Conflict Resolution and The World Affairs Council of Greater Hampton Roads present:

The Future of Armed Conflict: Lessons Learned from a Decade of War

by Lieutenant General H.R. McMaster

Director, Army Capabilities and Integration Center and Deputy Commanding General, Futures, U.S. Army Training and Doctrine Command

Thursday, October 9, 6:00 pm

Christopher Newport University, Freeman 201

After more than a decade of war, what lessons have we learned? How will these lessons be applied to the future of armed conflict?

Is continued sequestration degrading our military's ability to conduct future operations?

How will the changing security environment - an aggressive and expansionist Russia, the U.S. rebalance to the Pacific, the emergence of ISIL, widespread havoc from epidemic diseases such as Ebola - impact our military's ability to confront simultaneous challenges to US national security on multiple fronts?

The event is free and open to the public. To register for the dinner following the event, please visit <http://stores.hrwac.org> ($25 World Affairs Council members, $35 non-members) or call the World Affairs Council of Greater Hampton Roads at 757-363-3090.
