Please join us for a gala reception honoring Ferguson Fellows, their faculty mentors and future fellows on Tuesday, March 31, 2015, at 5 p.m. in the Luter Hall atrium. The inaugural event will celebrate this year's successful community-based research projects completed by CNU students. Current Ferguson Fellows will discuss the impact on communities and organizations served, and Dr. Stephanie Bardwell, Academic Director of Community Based Learning, will announce the first round of 2015-16 Ferguson Fellows awardees.

The 2014-15 fellows include Brad Turner, Shannon Jenkins, Elizabeth Cloude, Aubrey Kosa, Abby Yoder, Katie Fisher, Courtney Cox, Hannah Phelps, Sarah Blakeney, Sarah Miller, Kayla Jost and Sharon Titus. Community projects included Documentary Storytelling of Senior Citizens; CNU Food Cooperative; College Preparation Programs for At-risk High School Students; Habitat for Humanity Homeowner Workshops; On-campus Awareness and Support for Military Affiliated Students; the Hampton Roads Oral History Project; and Minding the Gap: A Needs Assessment of the Hampton Roads Bhutanese Community.

For more information, contact Vanessa Buehlman in the CNU Center for Community Engagement at \(757\) 594-7492.
