A Regional College With a World View

Our faculty have traveled to us through educational institutions in 37 states and seven foreign countries – through places like Harvard and Yale; MIT and Georgia Tech; the University of Illinois and the University of California at Berkeley; and like Meijo University of Japan and the Free University of Berlin. Some have traveled through IBM and Allied Corporation; NASA and the Federal Trade Commission; Arthur Anderson and the World Maccabiah Soccer Games. And out of these various journeys, they have come to Shoe Lane to teach. To share with you their mental travels. As they respond to your curiosity, they will show you the joys of a disciplined examination of the world in all of its peculiarity and mystery of both place and people.

Our faculty has expressed for you this mindful journey in the New Curriculum Plan which shall open the College's 25th year. This plan will help you relate the mastery of English and mathematics to the fundamental humanistic traditions, to the essential natures of the various academic undergraduate degrees, and ultimately to your choice of a particular discipline and its problems, which may range from the marketing of a soft drink, to the understanding of a black hole, to the creation of A Catcher in the Rye.

The New Curriculum is driven by our desire to create a near place so that you may learn how to go intelligently to the far places of the universe and the mind. A poem by William Blake expresses this intent:

To see a world in a grain of sand
And heaven in a wild flower,
Hold infinity in the palm of your hand
And eternity in an hour.

This philosophy is infused into each of the 26 areas of the curriculum in which you can major. You will feel it in the liberal arts majors (like English, history, mathematics, modern languages, and philosophy) and in the fine arts majors (like painting, music, and theatre); in the social/behavioral science majors (like education, political science, psychology, and sociology) and in the business/economics majors (like accounting, economics, marketing, management, and international business). It even permeates the majors which focus on contemporary technology (like computer science and microelectronics). Everywhere the College has tried to make your study here carry you far into life.

A college will be more to you than a faculty and a curriculum. It will be a real physical place – a campus – and it will be a psychological place – a developing arena that can respond to your deepest needs as you undergo the maturing forces of disciplined study.

Christopher Newport is a pleasant physical place. It is 75 acres in suburban Newport News, on which have been artfully placed nine buildings, a track, soccer fields, tennis courts, and parking lots. These are surrounded by 1,000 different shrubs and a rich variety of trees. When you want to play and when you want to be alone, the campus can provide.

Christopher Newport is a rich college for human development. This is not the usual artificial academic world created for special levels of age or wealth or intelligence, or for special skills. Rather it is a school of variety. You will find here a college that has sought to preserve that variety – there are 50 student clubs, six fraternities and sororities, five honor societies, a choir, concerts that range from rock to Bach, an ROTC, a full NCAA Division III athletic program (our Captains and Lady Captains have won the Dixie Conference's President's Cup for the last two years) and an endless number of informal activities among students, faculty, and administrators.

Christopher Newport looks to your future as a person and as a worker. The College has a well-developed advisory and counseling program. And both of these are extended into career planning activities. Faculty and administration combine forces to help you examine and move toward your best tomorrow.

All of this – faculty, curriculum, campus, student life, counseling – makes Christopher Newport College a world. All of this makes possible your developing working perspectives on yourself and the larger world surrounding the College and you.

You don't have to go away to college to find an institution that can open doors for you into the world. You can find that far is near, that Christopher Newport College is far enough.

For 25 years, our students have been discovering the great unfolding values of the little world on Shoe Lane. Some of these students have left the Greater Hampton Roads to make their mark; others live and work here. The stories of a few of our graduates are told below.

Their stories may surprise you; their stories will invite you to become as they are – the people of Christopher Newport College.

In the mid-70's, Sam Fairchild came to us, as a sophomore transfer student from the University of Washington. Sam had grown up in Newport News, was a graduate of Hampton Roads Academy, and found in his returning home a place to develop. Magnetic, playful and bright, Sam became a leader in student government and in the classroom, majoring in economics. Sam graduated with honors and he left the Peninsula for the University of Virginia. Today, he is in Washington, D.C., at the White House, as Advisor on Domestic Affairs to President Reagan.

When we first opened our doors on September 15, 1961, Paula Clark – one year later she was to become Paula Rankin – stood in line to register. A graduate of Warwick High School, Paula made a good academic start; then came a gap in school time for her to be a new wife and mother; then, came the gradual return to us and the journey toward graduation as an English major. Out of the great forces of marriage, motherhood, and college was created a poet whose work has been twice published by the distinguished Carnegie-Mellon University Press of Pittsburgh. Out of the interaction of study and creativity was to come a scholar who has now earned a master's degree in English from the College of William and Mary and a doctorate from Vanderbilt University. Today, she continues to write and to teach and is greatly recognized for her achievements. She served as Poet-in-Residence at the College of William and Mary during the 1985-86 academic year and is currently Professor of English at Baldwin-Wallace College in Ohio.

A graduate of Hampton High School, James O. West earned the BSBA Degree in management here. He is now manager of Engineering Quality Assurance and Standardization at Newport News Shipbuilding. We are very proud of Jim because of his exceptional work in molding the educational and employment environments of the Peninsula. Jim is Chairman of the School Board of the City of Newport News, a member of the Board of the Peninsula Nature and Science Center, and the Board of the New Horizons Technical Center. In addition, he has served as Chairman of the Hampton Roads Section of the American Society of Non-Destructive Testing and as a member of the Quality Assurance Subcommittee of the Atomic Industrial Forum. Jim is sensitive to the College's role in the development of his life and returns his thanks by serving as a Director of the Alumni Association.

It is almost impossible to pick up The Daily Press without seeing how Hatcher Cale is shaping the real estate life of the region. Hatcher was graduated from Ferguson High School and began his college education at Chowan College. Then came the Vietnam War into which he went. Returning to civilian life, Hatcher decided to enroll in our business administration program. Hatcher will tell you that he was not a student until he came under the influence of our faculty. From that point until now, he has grown as a creative businessman, a growth which can be seen in the success of his many office and residential developments. Hatcher's awareness of the College's role in his life has been symbolized in his establishment of a scholarship and an endowment program.

The last picture is different and is special for us because it is of the family of Oscar L. Crawford. We offer the picture because the Crawfords illustrate one of our most valuable opportunities – a place where a whole family can continue their unfolding lives through an education that enhances their working lives and matures family relations. Oscar came to Hampton by way of Langley Air Force Base. He met and married Buena Moore, a graduate of Huntington High School. In 1967 and 1974, Oscar and Buena, respectively, began their studies with us. In January of 1976, he earned a degree in information science, with a minor in accounting. Today, he is a systems analyst for Wyle Laboratories. In January of 1978, Buena was graduated with a BSBA Degree with a concentration in accounting and went to work at NASA as a program analyst. Two of their children – Michael and Antony – are currently pursuing our degrees in information science, while a third child – Monica Lynn attends the University of Virginia, studying medicine. Oscar and Buena are active in the life of their community and are leaders where they work: Oscar serves on the Clean City Commission of Hampton and Buena is one of 10 members on the Langley Exchange Commission to advise the Director of NASA. For the well-being of the College, they have dedicated a portion of their time, with Oscar serving as Secretary to the Alumni Association.

There are many others of course: Teachers and clergymen; managers and accountants; doctors and lawyers; city planners and chiefs of police. All have discovered that CNC has opened up the larger world to them.

*"...A lot of us have found ourselves living lives we could not have even dreamed of.
I think sometimes of what I might have been,

*"I love the campus. I like the feeling that I am someone here,
that I
belong.
When I walk along, I know that nearly everyone I pass
knows who I am or knows
something that I have done.
I feel that I am someone special here..."

(A CNC Student)*

"Christopher Newport was probably the most valuable educational experience I had in my entire life. It was far more important to me than what I learned later at the university. For me it was the right school at the right time..." (A Former CNC Student)

Admission to the College

At Christopher Newport College the application review process is a deliberate one, taking into consideration the fact that each applicant has talents, strengths, and abilities which make him or her unique. After a careful and thorough review of your application for admission to CNC, a decision is made which we think will be in your best interest.

The admissions process is straightforward, and you will be notified of our decision three to five working days after we receive all of your credentials. Although the deadline for applying is August 1, we highly recommend that you apply as early as possible in the academic year in order to receive full consideration for all orientation and early registration programs.

When your application for admission is reviewed by one of our admissions officers, your entire high school academic record will be read, with particular attention to three specific areas: 1) In academics, we look for a minimum Grade Point Average (GPA) of 2.00 on a 4.00 scale, a C average, in courses like English, mathematics, natural sciences, social sciences, and foreign languages; 2) we will also be looking for class ranking in the upper-half of your graduating class, and 3) we require a minimum score of 400 in verbal and mathematics portions of the SAT's, for a minimum total of 800. And, since you will be doing a fair amount of writing while you are here, your essay in the application for admission will be very carefully read.

If you meet all three requirements, you will receive an offer of admission as a degree-seeking student. If you fail to meet all three requirements, we cannot offer you admission, but we may recommend that you attend one of the Virginia Community Colleges for at least one academic year. And, if you meet two of the three requirements or are marginal in these, we may offer admission to you with limitations, either on the number of courses or the kinds of courses you will be taking during the freshman year.

If you are a high school senior with an above-average academic record and high SAT's, you may qualify for entry into the Enrichment Program for High School Students. Designed to bridge the gap between high school and college, this program allows you to enroll in coursework at CNC while you complete your graduation requirements. Once you have talked to your parents and guidance counselor about your interest in this program, your high school should send us an official copy of your academic and testing record, along with a letter of recommendation from your guidance counselor. After we have received these materials, we will contact you for an interview with an admissions officer.

Students who have completed the work of the junior year with truly exceptional grades in college-preparatory courses and high SAT scores may apply for admission into the Early

Admission program. Designed for the exceptionally well-prepared rising senior demonstrating high motivation to succeed as a college freshman, this program allows such students to begin college-level studies immediately after the junior year of high school. Since the decision to attend college after the junior year is a serious matter, interested students should discuss their plans with their parents and guidance counselor before applying to the College. We will require an official copy of your high school academic and testing record, in addition to a letter from your guidance counselor which speaks to your maturity and readiness for college-level study. Once these credentials have arrived, we will contact you for an interview with an admissions officer.

Advanced Placement Credit

Students may earn advanced placement through the AP (Advanced Placement) Program of the College Entrance Examination Board. Credit may be earned in American history, art, biology, chemistry, English, European history, French, German, Latin, mathematics, music, physics, and Spanish. Since minimum acceptable scores vary by academic department, please have your high school forward test results to the Office of Admissions. We will evaluate the results and send you written notification of our decision within four to five days.

Costs and Financial Aid

Christopher Newport's costs are reasonable. The quality and scope of its educational offerings are exceptional.

For the 1987-88 academic year Virginia residents who were enrolled in 15 credits (the typical full-time course load) per semester paid $952.50 per semester for tuition.* Other expenses for books and miscellaneous fees total about $170 per semester. Out-of-state students who enroll in 15 credits per semester pay $1,560 for tuition per semester.* In calculating total costs, travel expenses and spending money should be considered.

For those who need help in meeting these costs, Christopher Newport College provides a full range of financial aid programs. Students may receive assistance in the form of scholarships, grants, loans, and employment. They might receive only one form of aid or a combination of two or more. Over 40 percent of our students are now benefiting from such aid.

If you would like more information on financial assistance, you are encouraged to request it from our Office of Financial Aid, located in Room 239 of the Administration Building. Their telephone number is (804) 599-7170. Keep in mind, however, that a student must be accepted at Christopher Newport College before a final determination about financial assistance can be made.

*Tuition and fees are subject to change.

INSTRUCTIONS

Details on these and other College fees appear in the College Catalog, available in the Office of Admissions at no charge. Make your check or money order payable to Christopher Newport College. Your cancelled check is proof of payment.

Freshmen are encouraged to apply by June 1 to receive consideration for all programs. Application deadlines for the fall semester are August 1 for U.S. citizens; July 1 for international students. Application deadlines for the spring semester are December 15 for U.S. citizens; November 15 for international students.

The Honors Program

The College's honors program now enters its seventh year with more than 30 honors students enrolled. Why an honors program? We'll be honest: we want good students at CNC. Teachers like them in classes. The campus is a better place with interested, curious, hard-working people around. And, we think the CNC Honors Program will help you.

Honors classes contain the material not seen in other classes. Honors instructors want to know you and hear your ideas. They are not interested in pushing you through; they want the pleasure of seeing your mind develop, and they expect to learn along with you.

When you graduate with an Honors Degree, your CNC diploma will say so, and in your personal file – to be sent to all prospective employers or graduate schools – will be a letter explaining that you have completed courses that make you a better thinker and writer – a better-educated and broadly-qualified person.

How do you join? If you are interested in the CNC Honors Program, do well in high school and on your SAT's. When the letter of invitation comes from the CNC Admissions Office, pick up the phone and make a single call. Advising appointments will be made for you, with a regular faculty member who serves on the CNC Honors Council. As a result of your single visit to the campus for this personal advising session, you will be in the CNC Honors Program and leave with a copy of your class schedule for the first semester.

Who is eligible? Entering freshmen are invited to select the Honors Program if their SAT scores total 1,000 or more. Returning students may be invited to join the program on the basis of their first semester's or first year's work at CNC.

Are scholarships available? Yes. Each year, funds are provided by the Board of Visitors of Christopher Newport College, providing scholarship support of $400 for as many as 40 students. These students are named the Styron Scholars, after novelist William Styron. (See William Styron?) As of 1986, the College has committed itself to raising full scholarships for Honors Students. Starting in the 1986-87 academic year, the first of these scholarships – The McMurren Scholarships – became available. Honors Students are eligible for scholarships given by the College to reward academic achievement and campus service. Financial need is not a factor in granting these scholarships.

William Styron? William Styron, the noted novelist, has agreed to lend his name to CNC's freshman and sophomore Honors Students who take part in the program. A native of Newport News, Styron received the Prix de

Rome of the American Academy of the Arts and Letters for his first novel, Lie Down in Darkness. His Confessions of Nat Turner won him a Pulitzer Prize in 1968 and his latest best seller, Sophie's Choice, which has been called by many critics the most extraordinary statement of the Nazi death camps ever to have come from an American writer, was awarded an American Book Award, and made into a film starring Meryl Streep and Kevin Kline.

In asking permission to use his name, the CNC Honors Council wrote, "We chose your name because we want to say to young people, 'Here is a man who came from the Peninsula, as you do, and who has attained a high level of intellectual achievement, as you may also strive to do.' You are special to Newport News because your achievement is an intellectual one, and because it is not defined in purely local terms... the goal of our college is to introduce the men and women who pass through our hands to the larger vision of life."

Is it worth the work? The Honors Program at Christopher Newport College offers important benefits:

- scholarship support for all four years of undergraduate education
- excellent alternative classes taught by our finest faculty
- small classes designed to let you grow through regular participation
- the opportunity to work with highly motivated students and faculty
- conscientious academic advising
- independent study under the guidance of a professor in your chosen major
- activities sponsored by the Honors Council, like regular forums and trips to state-wide conferences

Is there someone on the CNC campus who will talk about honors? Honors Students, who presently come from 15 area schools, will. Honors Faculty, who represent one-third of all academic departments, will. Admissions Officers will, if you phone them at (804) 599-7015. The Director of the Honors Program, Dr. Jay Paul of the CNC Department of English, will. You may phone him at (804) 599-7072. If there's no answer, leave a message with his secretary, at (804) 599-7024.

Transfer Opportunities

Of the 3,000 colleges and universities in America, almost 700 are currently represented in the Christopher Newport College student body. In addition, one-fourth of our current enrollment consists of transfer students from the Virginia Community College System (VCCS.)

This is largely due to the fact that CNC has developed, in conjunction with the seven area community colleges, a set of "2+2 Programs," whereby certain graduates of these community colleges transfer their entire associate's degrees with no loss of credit.

In general, classified (degree-seeking) admission for transfer students requires: a) prior attendance at other regionally-accredited colleges or universities; b) that applicants be in good academic standing and eligible to return to their most recently attended college or university and; c) a minimum cumulative grade point average of "C" (2.00 GPA on a 4.00 scale). Transfer applicants not in good standing (either academically suspended, dismissed, or dropped) and not eligible to return to their most recent institution must wait at least one semester (two quarters if coming from a school on the quarter-hour system) before they may apply for admission to CNC.

At the point of admission, college or university transcripts will be evaluated for a determination of the transferability of credit. At that time, transfer students will be assigned a faculty advisor in their major department. When the transfer evaluation is done, the original is mailed to the student, a copy sent to the assigned faculty advisor, and the student will be asked to contact the advisor for a program planning appointment.

The "2+2 Programs" were developed by CNC and the seven area Virginia Community Colleges (Thomas Nelson Community College, the three campuses of Tidewater Community College, the two campuses of Rappahannock Community College, and Paul D. Camp Community College). Essentially, students completing these programs transfer to CNC as juniors, having satisfied the lower-level general education degree requirements, and such students may complete the four-year degree after two additional years of full-time study at Christopher Newport College.

There are currently more than 30 "2+2 Program" agreements in force with local VCCS schools. Although the programs were developed with Tidewater area VCCS schools, graduates from other VCCS schools who have earned the appropriate associate's degree may transfer to CNC under the same policies.

At the present time, there are "2+2 Programs" in effect for most of the baccalaureate degrees offered at Christopher Newport College. For details on the specific "2+2 Programs" at the various local VCCS schools, please contact any VCCS counseling center.

As an additional resource for VCCS students, Christopher Newport College publishes a booklet entitled A Transfer Guide for Virginia Community College Students, available at most VCCS counseling centers and in the CNC Office of Admissions. This booklet lists all VCCS course which are accepted in transfer from VCCS schools, as well as how they transfer to CNC, the number of semester hours accepted for each course or course sequence, etc.

Applicants holding a four-year degree and planning to earn a second bachelor's degree at CNC may be granted up to 92 semester hours of transfer credit and, in most instances, will have satisfied the College's general education degree requirements. Such students must complete the last 30 semester hours of their new degree (12 of which must be in their new major) in-residence at the College, under Classified (degree-seeking) status.

In general, the College will accept no more than 92 semester hours of transfer credit from four-year institutions, no more than 66 semester hours from two-year institutions, and 92 hours from a combination of the two.

Athletics

The College is a member of the NCAA Division III and competes in the Dixie Intercollegiate Athletic Conference (DIAC). Colleges in the conference include: Averett College (VA), Virginia Wesleyan College, Greensboro College (NC), Methodist College (NC), North Carolina Wesleyan College, Saint Andrew's Presbyterian College (NC), and the University of North Carolina at Greensboro. The College regularly competes with Division I and II teams from Virginia and North Carolina, including Duke, UVa., ODU, and William and Mary. Men's teams compete as "The Captains," the women as "Lady Captains."

During the 1986-87 academic year, the Captains and Lady Captains made major strides, winning one national championship, placing two students into "All America" status, and winning 59 percent of all competitive athletic contests. And, for the fourth consecutive year, the College won the coveted Dixie Conference "President's Cup," symbolizing the best overall athletic program in the conference.

The women's track team won the NCAA Division III National Championship for outdoor competition and placed second nationally in indoor competition. Freshman standout Lisa Dillard won five individual and one relay team national championship and set nine national records in indoor and outdoor competition.

The men's soccer team earned the best win-loss record in the College's history, posting a record of 18 wins and five losses. For the first time in the College's history, the soccer team competed in the NCAA Division III National Championship Tournament and at the end of the year, ranked 10th in the nation. Soccer standout Gerard Mosley became the first male athlete from CNC to be named "First Team All American."

Visiting the Campus

Although interviews are not required for admission to CNC, you are invited to visit our campus for a guided tour. Throughout the academic year and during the summer, student assistants from the Office of Admissions conduct tours of the campus, allowing visitors to get a glimpse of our classrooms, computer facilities, fine arts and music studios, theatre, library, and the Student Center, where many students congregate during non-class hours. To arrange for such a guided tour, simply contact the Office of Admissions about one week prior to your visit and we will be happy to honor your request.
