The Dean Parks Colloquium Committee and the Lambda Alpha Honor Society are pleased to announce the seminar presentation of Dr. Christine Keiner set for this Tuesday, March 24th at 4 pm in the Freeman Center, Room 101. Her seminar is entitled, The Interdisciplinary Nature of Answering 'The Oyster Question.'

In addition, a student luncheon with Dr. Keiner will be held at 12:30 pm in the Washington Room of the David Student Union. If you are interested in attending the luncheon (faculty are also welcome), please RSVP by 5 pm today (russell.burke@cnu.edu).

Dr. Christine Keiner is an Associate Professor of Science, Technology, and Society, and of History at the Rochester Institute of Technology. She has written on the science and politics of Maryland's oyster fishery, the nuclear Panama sea-level canal debate, and marine environmental history more broadly. Dr. Keiner will speak about her experience writing The Oyster Question and the role that her liberal arts training played in her success as an author and professional in her field.

We look forward to seeing you at one or both of the scheduled events.
