

Alex Ruble received a B.A. in history from CNU and graduated in May 2010.

She received a five-year funding package from UNC-Chapel Hill to pursue a Ph.D. in modern German history. She completed her MA at UNC in January 2012. Her research focus is on women's political involvement in East and West Germany during the 1950s and 1960s. While she was at CNU, Alex studied abroad for a semester in Prague, received Honors and PLP funding to travel to German archives for her undergraduate research project, and presented her work at multiple conferences. As a doctoral student at UNC, she has received research funding from the Center for European Studies, the Social Science Research Council, and the Fulbright U.S. Student program.