I want to let you know that our good friend and faculty colleague, Dr. Edward Weiss, passed away peacefully at his home this morning, October 1.

Ed was at CNU for 33 years, serving most recently as Chair of the Department of Organismal and Environmental Biology until his retirement this past August. In addition to being an advocate for all things biology, he was a dedicated member of the CNU community and served selflessly on numerous committees over the years.

His commitment to our University was almost matched by his love of art, especially live music, and some of his concert trips are legendary.

Above all else, Ed was devoted to his family. He loved and cared for his wife Marcia for many years until her death last year. He adored his daughters Katie and Jenna, and doted on his grandson Lincoln. Let us keep them in our thoughts and prayers at this difficult time.

Ed was a dear friend to many and will be greatly missed.
